

FOOTLIGHT FAVORITES WHO WILL APPEAR NEXT WEEK

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE"
AND "ON TRIAL" HITS.

If you enjoy thrills go to the Candler Theatre and see "On Trial," one of the most sensational hits the theatre has known in years. The appeal of this play is found in the realistic treatment of a story that combines the tense interest which attaches to the bent for acquittal or conviction of an accused murderer and the battle of wit by the District Attorney and the lawyer for the defense, the whole forming a powerful dramatic exposition.

"It Pays to Advertise" is one of the liveliest comedies and another endearing plays in town. This funny farce is approaching its tenth performance at the George M. Cohan Theatre, and the fact that it is still attracting big audiences indicates it will remain throughout the summer, authors, Bert Cooper, Magnus and Wallace, have written a clever play and written of things that might happen to every day persons and in a way that every one can understand.

ZIEGFELD FOLLIES BALL
ON MONDAY NIGHT.

The "Follies" ball, to be given at the Danes de Follies, atop the New Amsterdam Theatre, Monday night, promises to be a unique affair. In addition to the regular performance of the Ziegfeld "Midnight Frolic," the entire cast and chorus of the 1914 series of the "Follies" will participate in the entertainment. Many of the important comedy scenes and popular ensemble numbers of last year's review will be presented. Mr. Ziegfeld has arranged several surprises and novelties. The list of performers will include Leon Errol, Vera Michelena, Louise Meyer, Bernard Grancille, Alice Parker, Wynona, Arthur Loggin, Georgia White, Whi West, Marjorie Hudson, Charles Purcell, Sybil Carman, Olive Thomas, Johnny Dove, Kay Laurell, Margaret Morris, May Leale, William C. Schrode, Gladys Feldman, Stella Chalaine, Gladys Zell, Kathryn Daly, Isabelle Jason, Miles Odista, Myrtle, Isabel Rodriguez, and Bert Williams.
